February's Sirocco winds originating in the Sahara Desert blew into France and left a reddish tint to the air.

Spring in Le Puy

Parks in Le Puy are brilliant with color and dramatic scenes of Nature's beauty.

A mallard duck couple has once again made the Centre its home during mating season. The ducks also took over the fish pond. The male is especially attentive the female during this special time. We hope to see their babies soon!
